Stanton was a The editor of the But_Brits was, it is true, until something over two months ago, an applicant for the office of post-master of this city, and his application for the place was kindly favored by Senator Beek, Hon. John G. Carlisle, Hon. J. Beek Greary, Hon. J. Halsel and by other Democrats both at home and throughout the State. Thus the matter stood until Mr. Wadsworth, whom the editor had opposed in the race for Congress last fall, exercised his royal preorgative and interposed his objection to the appointment. As this objection was respected by Mr. Beek, who seems to have had the whole thing in his own hands, the editor quietly withdrew from the contest. That is a history of the matter in a nutshell. The dussatisfaction with Mr. Beek, however, arose after this was all over and had nothing whatever to do with his relations with the editor of this paper, The Democrats of Mayaville desired to have in the post-office a good and acceptable Democrat of their own selection and were ready to farmish the names of a dozen competent men, if necessary, from among whom a postmaster might be chosen competent men, if necessary, from among whom a postmaster might be chosen competent men, if necessary, from among whom a postmaster might be chosen competent men, if necessary, from among whom a postmaster might be chosen they sixed nothing more than this and urged no particular person upon his favor. But Mr. Beek refused to listen to their appeal and treated with great rudeness the representatives of the party who visited him at Washington. This is exactly how the matter stands, and if the editor of the Kentuckian will take the trouble to visit Mayaville and consult with the Democrats he can satisfy himself in five minutes that this is the situation.

New Fair Company Meeting.

The Stockholders of the new fair company met at the court house, Saturday atternoon at two o'clock, Mr. James W. Fitzgerald in the chair.

The report of the committee on membership was read and the committee continued one week longer.

A charter to govern organization was read and unanimously adopted.

After adoption of the charter, the chairman, in a pleasant and appropriate manner, returned his thanks to the members for their kindness toward him, congratulated them upon their undertaking, and declared the Young Men's Kentacky Fair Company a "full fledged" corporation.

Tire amount of taxes paid on distilled liquors is a fair indication of the amount of distilled liquors drank. That revenue for 1884 was $76,063,385, on early 3,000,000 in excess of the previous year. The figures for each five years since the present rate of tax was made in 1863 have been—1805, $18,731,422; 1870, $44,281,818; 1875, $22,081,991, and 1880, $61,185,500, showing conclusively that the $5,000,000 of people in 1884 did not, as has been frequently stated, drink less distilled liquors than did the 31,000,000 in 1860, lager making the change. The figures on fermented liquors show a steady increase of not less than $500,000 a year from $638,934,934 in 1863 to $16,900,015 in 1884.

Massillas, June 17.—A correspondent visited the filthest quarters of Marseillas and interview of weren local authorities on the prospects of a recurrence of cholera. Experience has taught Marseillab rull title. In most of the old streets inhabitants still pitch their animal and vegetable refuse into gutters. The sewers are foul. Everything is ready to favor the development of the epidemic if it should again track out. All the warnings of doctors seem to the danger. The Jarreis still rolls its inkly waters through the town, and the sanitary precautions taken to guard Marsel los against the sourge extend no further than sprinking altitudisinfecting fluid against the walls sign of anything like an epidemic, but as the first physician in Marselles remarked to a correspondent, "The city is full of infection.
